What's New in the?

In this article we will show you how to insert a search bar in your blogger site. You can use this to create and publish new custom posts, view Blogger posts and open your blog page with just one click. WordPress currently offers no easy way to do this. But if you add the buddy gadget to your Blogger template, your Blogger blog automatically becomes a WordPress blog. When you are using Buddy in your Blogger template, all the new posts you create are stored on your Blogger blog. Buddy is a lightweight, simple sidebar gadget that allows you to easily access your Blogger account and post updates. You can use it to create and publish new posts, view your Blogger posts and open your blog page with just one click. You can also use Buddy to make posts available on your site that are not part of your Blogger blog. For example, you might want to publish a WordPress post to your Blogger site and make it available on your own site. You can use Buddy on all of your blogs, but it's most useful for blogs that are part of your Blogger account. Step 1: Download the Buddy GADGET Download the Buddy GADGET by clicking on the "Get Blogger Buddy" button at the bottom of the page. It's free to use for personal blogs. When you download the Buddy gadget, your Blogger template will appear in a new window. This will open up a blank template for you to add Buddy to your Blogger site. Step 2: Add the Buddy GADGET to your Blogger template If your blog is not stored in Blogger's free space, you'll need to use a free Google code generator to create a new code snippet. This will copy the Buddy code and add it to your Blogger template. If you want to add Buddy to a custom template, you'll need to use a custom template generator to create a new code snippet. The HTML code for Buddy is shown in the following screenshot: Below the HTML code you'll see a snippet of the code that you can copy and paste into a template editor window. Just copy the HTML code, paste it into the template editor and you'll see that the Buddy GADGET code has been inserted into your template. When you've finished adding Buddy to your template, it will appear in your Blogger dashboard. Step 3: Activate Buddy in your Blogger account After adding Buddy to your template, you will need to activate Buddy in your account. Go to your dashboard, click on the "settings" tab and then click on "edit blog". To add Buddy to your blog, select "buddy from Blogger" and the word "buddy" should appear
